TRUMAN MESSAGE STIRS HEAT IN CONGRESS

Tokyo To See
3-Mile Parade
Of Yank Might

(By The Associated Press)

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 7.—A three-mile parade of American military might through the heart of Tokyo, beginning within sight of the emperor's palace, will mark the triumphal entry of Gen. MacArthur Saturday (Friday U. S. date), it was learned today.

A Dome broadcast said he would arrive at 11 a. m. (10 p. m. today). The fully-equipped Seventh and Eighth regiments of the First Cavalry division will march through the bomb-shattered capital city of surrendered Japan—the first such march of a conqueror there in Japan's history.

An honor guard from the Seventh regiment will escort MacArthur from the Tokyo railroad station in the Marunouchi business quarter, east of the palace grounds, to the American embassy.

The First Cavalry band will blare martial music as the supreme commander of the Allied powers motors to the embassy, there to raise the same American flag which flew over the White House in Washington, D. C., Dec. 7, 1941, the day that "will live in infamy."

The Seventh and Eighth regiments will be fully armed, dressed in combat khakis. They are from the Second brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen. Hugh Hoffman, San Antonio and El Paso, Texas.

The Seventh regiment, led by Lt. Col. William A. Adams, of El Paso, will open the occupation of Tokyo, scheduled to take in 40 of the city's more than 200 square miles.

Dome, Japanese news agency, said the first troops would enter the city at 6 a. m. tomorrow (5 p. m. Friday). MacArthur is leading 15,000 troops into Tokyo.

His honor guard—a coveted assignment won in competition—will be a F troop from the Second battalion of Maj. William W. West, Warrenton, Va.

With occupation forces already holding strategic points from the south tip of Kyushu to Tokyo, in central Honshu, negotiations were under way for the American Navy to take over Omimoto naval base on the extreme north tip of Honshu.

The development in Saxony is disclosed in a decree published in Berlin newspapers, breaking up the Communist land reform. This decree is sweeping. It expropriates all agricultural wealth belonging to anyone who was actively associated with the Nazi party in any way, shape or manner. It's a net with a mesh so small that few fish will escape.

The fever of reform has spread from Saxony to Mecklenburg, Brandenburg and Thuringia. There German Communists are arranging mass meetings at which farmers and small peasants are passing resolutions, condemning the junkers and other land barons as reactionaries. Thus the way is being paved for further possible expropriations.

The reform in Poland has been sweeping. The Polish press agency, which is the official medium of the provisional government of Poland, says that by the end of last April 7,269,953 acres of land had been parcelled out to 269,893 families. As a concrete illustration of what is happening, it is said that the 6,000 acre estate of Count Alfred Potocki Turn to WORLD TODAY, Page 6

Aid Dazes Vet,
Armless, Legless

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 7.—Pfc. Jimmy Wilson, the young GI who lost both arms and both legs in a plane crash, sat dazed and silent when he learned that Americans contributed $100,448 to guarantee his future.

He remained motionless in his wheel chair unable to speak. The stumps of his hands twitched as he lit a cigarette with artificial limbs.

"I still can't believe it," the Stark, Fla., soldier said. "I reckon a fellow never finds out how wonderful people are until something like this happens."

The fund, raised through voluntary contributions in a coast-to-coast solicitation, will be temporarily placed in government securities until a suitable trust can be arranged to guarantee Jimmy a steady life income.

Plans Youth For Christ Meeting Tuesday Night

E. C. Hammell, acting chairman of a group interested in starting a Youth for Christ program in Salem, announced a preliminary meeting for 8 p. m. Tuesday in the Memorial building.

Hammell invites the pastors of the churches and the young people and adults to attend.

On Sept. 18, there will be an organization meeting. The pastor and two appointed laymen from each church are invited. These representatives will be the board of control and will elect officers and appoint committees.

Raid Career

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 7.—The stout fighting heart which carried slender, greying John Sidney McCain through the Navy's strenuous flying course at 52 years of age and to smashing victories over the Japanese, gave out last night—of sheer exhaustion from combat duty.

A physician said the vice admiral, 61-year-old commander of famous carrier task force 38, was exhausted from three months of almost continuous raids, largely against the Japanese homeland.

In that time, McCain's planes knocked out 6,000 Nipponese aircraft and 2,000,000 tons of shipping, including approximately 100 warships.

McCain lived just long enough to see victory accomplished. He arrived home Wednesday after having witnessed the Sept. 2 surrender ceremony aboard the U.S.S. Missouri in Tokyo bay.

McCain, almost as bitter in his hatred of Japanese war lords as was his superior at sea, Adm. Halsey, declared:

"Japan's war lords are not half liked yet. I didn't like the look in their (signatories') eyes."

He had planned a short visit with his wife here, then a trip to Washington for a new assignment. Peppery and forward-looking, he was full of postwar plans.

"Give me enough fast carriers and let me run them and you can have the atom bomb," he told newspapermen in Honolulu.

McCain was graduated from the Naval academy in 1903. Thirty years after, at 52, after having served on almost every type of ship.

Canton GI Who Disappeared
Was In Midst Of Bomb Test

CANTON, Sept. 7.—S/Sgt. Walter W. Todoran, Jr., of Canton "disappeared" soon after returning from overseas service with the 37th (Ohio) division last January.

He wanted to tell his wife and parents where he was, but atomic bombs were being made and Sgt. Todoran was in the middle of the test activity at Santa Fe, N. M.

As a truck driver he hauled the bombs and as a rigger he helped construct the tall steel structure used for the first major test at Alamogordo, N. M.

Until the test, he wasn't too certain just what was going on around him. He drove supplies from the various laboratories to scientists waiting on "the hill." He heard many rumors.

Announces "This Is It"
Then one day a high ranking officer announced, "This is it." The crews were assembled at midnight according to plan and the convoy started for the desert.

After hoisting the bomb to the top of a tower and making everything ready, he and those working with him went back nine miles to wait.

"Everybody was shaking like a leaf and everybody was praying, just like we did before going into combat in the Pacific," he told an interviewer at his home.

Then it happened
"Nobody, even the scientists, knew exactly what was going to happen. Those last 45 minutes were like 45 of the longest hours."

Then it happened. The sergeant, wearing a welder's hood, turned to look in the general direction of the explosion. The concussion sent him spinning.

"It looked like the explosion was right on top of us and the light actually was as bright as the scientists reported, about 60 times brighter than the sun."

"We weren't allowed near the crater for about six days, although the scientists went in with special suits. The sand around the entire area was crystallized," Sgt. Todoran said.

100,000 IDLE
BY STRIKES IN
NATION TODAYDetroit's Auto Industry
Hardest Hit: Akron
Plants Closed(By Associated Press)
The number of workers made idle throughout the nation because of labor disputes soared beyond the 100,000 mark today—for the first time since months before Japan's surrender.

The hardest hit by strikes and walkouts was the Detroit's automobile industry, where more than 42,000 were idled. Throughout the nation the wave of work stoppages curtailed or halted production in some 30 industries and businesses.

Hope of immediate reduction of Detroit's idle rolls faded last night when striking employees of Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company voted to continue a 15-day strike has halted car and tractor production and idled more than 30,000 Ford Motor Co. workers.

Rubber Plants Down
The CIO United Automobile Workers at the plant where 4,500 are off their jobs in a dispute over discharge of three employees, voted 1,036 to 262 to remain away from their jobs.

Closing of the big Rouge plant assembly unit also resulted in shutting down Ford branches in Louisville, Dallas, Tex., and Edgewater, N. J., and closing of other Ford plants appeared imminent.

All operations of the B. F. Goodrich Co.'s six Akron plants, ceased today as 15,000 CIO-United Rubber Workers remained away from their jobs in protest against what their leaders termed "chaotic" conditions at the concern.

Only a few office workers and maintenance men were on duty. Production at the plants had been below normal for four days because of a strike of 780 members of the International Association of America. The production workers decided at a union meeting last night to remain away from their jobs until the company made "work available to all the members, with the proper supervision."

Idleness of the Goodrich workers brought the number of Ohioans involved in work stoppages above the 20,000 mark.

A one-day walkout of 250 URWA curing-room workers at the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. was halted last night as the employees agreed to return to work.

ARMY TERMINATES
CIGARETTE CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The army announced today termination of all contracts for cigarettes. It had contracted for 163,135,000 packs of cigarettes valued at $8,156,750 for delivery during the remainder of 1945. The orders were placed before last May, but deliveries had been deferred due to reduced requirements following V-E day.

In Campaign SpeechBY JACK BELL
AP Political Editor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—President Truman today pointed the Democratic party left of center in the 1946 congressional campaigns. In his 16,000-word message, the President left little doubt he stands primarily with the so-called liberal wing of his party.

Republicans noted this quickly, and their appraisal of the printed message. It looked to them like a campaign document, subheaded to deal with 21 specific issues.

Typical GOP comment came from Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ): "It's the old new deal dressed up in new clothes."

Many Democrats had about the same view. Senator James E. Murray (D-Mont.) said he never had any fears that Mr. Truman would go conservative in the White House.

Plane With 22 Persons
Aboard Appears To Be Complete Wreck

SUMTER, S. C., Sept. 7.—The Shaw field Army Air base reported today the wreckage of a plane, believed to be a missing Eastern Air liner with 22 persons aboard, had been sighted 10 miles east of Florence, near the Pee Dee river.

The report said the plane appeared to be a "complete wreck." Army planes from Shaw field and other bases at Florence, Pope field and Laurinburg-Maxon had been searching for the plane since early morning when it was first reported missing.

The plane, carrying 10 civilians, 9 military personnel and a crew of three, was on a flight from Miami to New York.

New York officers of E. A. L. said radio contact was lost around 2 a. m. after the liner had reported it was encountering bad weather and was attempting to make a landing at Florence near here.

The report received here said the wreckage was found in a dense swamp. Shaw field reported the liner was apparently flying about four miles off its radio beam when it crashed. A crash crew was dispatched from the Florence Air base shortly before noon.

The Florence base placed the scene of the crash at a point 15 miles northeast of Florence.

WITH BIG TAX
CUT PREDICTEDJobless Measure Is Near Death In Its Present
Form, Is Belief(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Congress got hotter today. Politics rushed back. Predictions of tax cuts buzzed around. There was even a shot of energy from the atomic bomb.

President Truman's message caused a lot of the heat. So did the coming investigation of Pearl Harbor.

That investigation now is certain to be held. The President swung behind it yesterday and the senate unanimously voted for it. The house will vote for it, too, but house Republicans today were demanding membership with Democrats on the investigating committee.

Some Republicans were saying Mr. Truman's big message looked like a campaign document for next year's elections. They called it "the same old new deal."

Shot In Army For Tax Talk

Most congressmen felt Mr. Truman had identified himself with the so-called liberal wing of the Democratic party instead of the conservatives.

Tax talk received a shot in the arm from the President's suggestion for "limited" reductions in 1946. Walter George, of Georgia, most influential tax man in the senate, said he believes the President was talking about tax cuts for individuals as well as corporations. George predicted five billion dollars would be whacked off federal taxes next year—both business and personal taxes.

Robert Doughton, of North Carolina, the tax leader of the house, says his ways and means committee will start work on a tax-cutting bill as soon as it gets rid of the unemployment compensation bill.

Jobless Bill Near Death

The unemployment measure in its present form seemed near death today. There was not only the opposition of important congressmen; there was also the fact that too many states were interpreting their laws as being in conflict with the proposal.

The bill is one of President Truman's "must" proposals for the transition to peace. It would provide federal cash to add to the payments which state governments make to their jobless citizens.

It also would extend the jobless-pay system to federal employees and maritime workers. (Congress might keep part of that.)

Here's how the atomic bomb entered into congressional doings: It changed the whole picture of scientific research, and gave a sudden shove to all proposals for federal activity in that field. Several congressmen have proposed a national research agency, and so did President Truman in his message.

Two senate committees will hear testimony about Oct. 1. Meeting Today

Two committee meetings today were important: 1. The senate banking committee met behind closed doors to discuss the so-called "full employment bill." Senator Taft (R., Ohio) was offering a series of amendments. He approves of planning for jobs—as the bill provides—but says he wants to eliminate certain "theories" about government spending.

2. The senate judiciary committee met to hear Budget Director Harold D. Smith argue for giving the President broad authority to streamline the government.

Nothing New

Research during the war advanced the cause of science and industry 50 years in a five-year period but it produced nothing new according to the experts in the scientific field.

Even the atomic bomb was in the experimental stage before the war started and radar, which has performed miracles beyond the understanding of the ordinary man was in practical use in peacetime and gave the warning of the Japanese planes approaching Pearl Harbor.

Penicillin had been produced long before Hitler marched, DDT was tested about the time of the first World war, synthetic rubber had been turned out many years ago and such things as rationing and price control were of antique origin.

Warlike developments, as they will relate to civilian life in peace, consist of developing and improving processes which already were in use but which were perfected during the impetus of war when most of the scientific brains of the world were working feverishly on ways of killing other men and saving the lives of our own.

These scientific advancements will make life fuller and better within a year or two. According to the scientists the world of 1947 will receive benefits of discoveries and improvements which would not have come within the lifetime of this generation except for the war.

This is no argument in favor of war but merely a recognition of the fact that even so great an evil brings its measure of blessing in mankind's steady march toward better things.

Need For a Peacetime OSS

Some of the war's most surprising and interesting "now it can be told" stories were the first ones describing the secret overseas activities of the Office of Strategic Services.

It is certain that a lot of people never heard of OSS during the war. It also is certain that nobody outside the highest government circles and OSS itself knew exactly what this super-secret agency was doing.

But the people know now. And having become acquainted with OSS, they must decide whether they want to keep it.

The United States never has had a foreign secret service, perhaps because Americans just haven't liked the idea, or because our government has been a little too honest, trusting and innocent. But other countries have had such services and will continue to have them.

So it would seem only sensible that we carry over into peacetime some form of organization to collect and co-ordinate foreign information as Maj.-Gen. W. J. Donovan, head of OSS, has suggested.

Already there is talk of smaller occupation forces and a shorter occupation for Germany and Japan than were originally planned. Some day we shall be getting out of both countries. But it is naive and dangerous nonsense to think they will not need watching for a long time, or that influential groups in both countries are not already thinking about a coming war of vengeance.

If we had had an OSS before the war, the disaster at Pearl Harbor might have been averted or certainly minimized. To prevent another such disaster will require constant vigilance, probably maintained in secrecy.

It seems safe to say that an international spy system is a little too sinister and melodramatic for the tastes of most of us. But if it can avoid the inaccuracies, confusion, cross-purposes and delay that led up to Pearl Harbor, let's have it.

Dangerous Medicine

Legislatures of most of the states will consider steps during the next year to control the sale of new medical discoveries which, though a boon to humanity when used properly, become dangerous when dispensed indiscriminately.

The sulfa drugs, penicillin, barbiturates and other drugs are hazardous in the hands of the amateur. Deaths from self-medication are all too common.

The Federal Food and Drug administration has the authority to control the sale of these preparations but lacks the manpower to enforce it. State departments with parallel powers may hold the answers and the plan is to dispense dangerous drugs only through registered pharmacists on a physician's prescription.

In the meantime, the public will be safer if it avoids the use of these new miracle medicines excepting as administered by someone who knows what they will do to the human machine.

Salvage Not Demobilized

Billions of tons of materials became surplus with the end of the war but not paper and fats which the American family has been contributing to the war effort.

These materials will continue scarce for some time. Paper, at least, will be salvaged indefinitely for the war has shown how reclaimed paper can be used to conserve the dwindling supply of pulpwood which will be needed for other things.

Many homes grew careless during the summer vacations but it is still thrifty and patriotic to support the peacetime effort by saving and turning in all possible supplies of these materials.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, September 8.

THE auguries for this day seem destined to point the energies, resources and ambitions in the direction of entirely new, alluring, productive and important fields of operation, and bearing a most significant influence on finances, business, professional domestic, romantic and social objectives, hopes and wishes. Not only direct and practical action and plans, but a discreet application of intrigue, stratagem or other undercover tactics, should promote all such ideals and ambitious purposes. Personal interest, praise and sentimental values have great importance.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to advancing upon the goal of fond hopes and aspirations, with changes and opportunities that will enhance the enjoyments, comforts and cherished desires and objectives. Such progressive, productive and happy auspices embrace not only the business and financial life, but also have pleasant influence in domestic, social, professional and affectional relations, in which there may be conviviality and joy by way of celebration. Much felicity and gratification are assured.

A child born on this day will make progress and prestige in its career, and will attain high ambitions and much personal and romantic gratification in life.

More Information, Please

By James Thrasher

Senator Murray of Montana, author of the pending Full Employment bill, has explained in a letter to the New York Times that this piece of legislation is essentially an affirmation of faith in private enterprise. It leaves private enterprise "completely free," says the senator, "to exercise its own ingenuity and initiative, which are the qualities that have made this country prosperous."

But earlier in the same letter Senator Murray has this to say: "Well, private enterprise has been left to its own devices from 1870 to 1930 and the record shows a succession of depressions with resulting unemployment."

It might have been well if he had explained the differences between private enterprise's "own devices" and its "own initiative and ingenuity." He apparently discerns the distinction, but he doesn't say how he is going to curb the depression-causing "devices" while leaving the prosperity-producing "ingenuity and initiative" untouched.

The senator says that his bill "contains no provisions for regimenting or managing private enterprise." Yet one of its purposes is to stimulate increased employment opportunities by private enterprise through promotion of non-federal investments and expenditures. This would be the last step before the bill's proposed public spending program, and it would be interesting to know how the stimulation could be applied without any pressure on private management.

It would also be interesting to know how accurately the government could translate the general term, "full employment," into an arbitrary number of persons to be employed, and how accurately it could make long-range forecasts of future unemployment—an estimate on which, apparently, Mr. Murray's whole program rests.

It would be not only interesting, but necessary, to know how this whole proposition can be made to work efficiently without a return to the whoppingly expensive philosophy of deficit spending, without a commitment to permanent inflation, and without opening the door to an expanded government control of business.

Mr. Murray's rich if somewhat contradictory praise of private enterprise doesn't plug all the possible loopholes in his bill through which an administration with a mind to do so could introduce a form of state socialism without the country's direct sanction. Such an administration might set an impossible goal of employment, then announce that private enterprise had failed—and there you would have it.

One doesn't need to be an altruist to share Senator Murray's desire for full employment. The eventual prosperity of all of us, rich or poor, requires it. For that very reason this bill which seeks to attain it should have an exhaustive examination. And there should be a clear understanding of further legislation required to put it into practice before the government or the people even think of committing themselves to its program.

Surrender of Japs In Nanking Sunday To Involve Million

NANKING, Sept. 7.—Indications today were that the official Japanese surrender in China would take place in this capital Sunday (Chinese time) and an American spokesman made it clear it will be a "100 per cent Chinese show."

"The Americans have been ordered to stay in the background and let the Chinese run it," said Brig. Gen. H. L. Boatner of New Orleans, deputy commander of the Chinese-American combat command, who arrived here yesterday.

Boatner said the Americans would stand by and do only what the Chinese asked them to do during the surrender of Japanese troops in China, estimated at about 1,090,000 men.

A comparatively small number of Chinese, assisted by U. S. troops, will accept the surrender.

(Preparations were under way for Japanese surrender in Shanghai. A delayed dispatch from that city said Lt. Gen. Shu-Sun, representing the Third Chungking army, on Tuesday night handed surrender instructions to Lt. Gen. Tsi Minfu, chief of staff of the Japanese 13th army, detailing the manner of laying down of arms, evacuation of troops and other pertinent data. An American representative and other Chinese officers are assisting Gen. Chen.)

The signing of the surrender terms at Nanking will take place in the national government building. Boatner said he believed the main surrender there would be followed by other surrenders at such points as Canton, Peiping and other cities.

In each area, he said, it was likely that the local Chinese commander would decide the method to be employed in handling Japanese who lay down their arms.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Symptoms of Liver Disease

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CATARRHAL jaundice is a disease of the liver itself. There is a great deal of evidence which indicates that the disturbance is caused by a filterable virus, that is, an organism so small that it can pass through the openings in a porcelain filter. There is also some evidence that this virus may be found in the blood, the intestinal contents, and the nasal secretions of patients with catarrhal jaundice.

It would also appear that the disease may be transmitted to persons susceptible to it through any of these contaminated secretions. Thus, it would appear quite possible that the disease is passed from one person to another in droplets of moisture which are thrown into the air during sneezing, coughing or talking.

Chronic Disorder

One of the serious things about catarrhal jaundice is that it may be followed by a chronic liver disorder. Hence, proper treatment of the condition is important. The disease usually occurs in children or young adults. The first symptoms are much like those of an attack of grippe, that is headache, fever, and a feeling of sickness. The jaundice, however, appears within a few days but, as a rule, it is not very severe nor does it last very long. Jaundice means a greenish-yellow color to the skin, due to excessive amounts of the bile coloring matter in the tissues. As a rule, the whole course of the disease is mild and a cure is promptly brought about. Often widespread epidemics of this disorder occur and outbreaks in army camps have developed.

There is no specific treatment for the liver damage produced by catarrhal jaundice. According to Doctor Henry J. Tumen of Philadelphia, the patient should be kept at rest in bed during the acute part of the disease. The patient's diet should be one which is rich in starches and sugars and protein foods such as meat, milk and eggs, and limited in fats. The diet can be made up of sugar, fruit juices, hard candy, bread, gelatin products, skim milk and preparations made from skim milk. Later on cooked fruits, vegetables, lean chicken and meat may be added.

Glucose Injections

If the digestive disturbances are so severe as to prevent the eating of sufficient food, a glucose solution may be injected into a vein. There are also preparations of amino acids, the substances which make up proteins, that can be given by injection.

There is also some evidence that large amounts of the vitamin B-complex may aid in protecting the liver. This can be given in the form of Brewer's yeast or by the injection of liver extract.

From time to time after an attack of catarrhal jaundice has occurred, the patient should be examined to make sure that chronic liver damage has not developed.

Railroads To Pour Out Billions To Modernize Lines For Competition

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The green light is on the signal board for post-war railroad industry purchases running into billions of dollars. Experts believe the nation's carrier system is entering a spending period perhaps unequaled since 1923, the first normal year of private operation after the first World War.

Railway Age magazine has estimated that railroad purchasing in the three or four immediate post-war years would average at least $500,000,000 a year for rolling stock, materials and supplies of all kinds, excluding fuel.

This would be some $300,000,000 more than in 1941, and the highest expenditure since 1929.

Summarized here are some of the things authorities say are on the way.

Thousands of over-age or out-moded locomotives, freight and passenger cars, which took a further beating during the war because all available equipment was needed, going to the scrap heap as materials and labor permit replacements and additions.

Vastly increased use of streamliners, making a high percentage of older passenger cars obsolete.

The open section Pullman car probably heading for extinction, replaced by roomette, bedroom and similar cars with their advantage of privacy and comfort.

Building of day-and-night coaches, coach-lounge cars, double or triple deck cars, club-movie cars, children's playroom cars, grill-room cars, casino cars and cars with other revolutionary interior arrangements, all for comfort and luxury.

Improvements in car lighting, more comfortable seats, use of plastic, light metals, plywood and moulded woods; splashing color inside and out; more air conditioning; improved car trucks to give more comfortable riding at high speeds.

Lower fares.—Railway Age said a majority of the railroads favor an immediate, sharp reduction in passenger fares.

Extensive improvements in stations and passenger handling facilities.

Faster schedules, made possible by improved motive power, lighter weight cars, better rails and roadbed, elimination of curves and easing of grades; advances in signaling and telephonic and radio communications.

Additional electrification on railroad systems.

Questions and Answers On Problems of the Servicemen

WASHINGTON—Return of Congress to Washington this week will have revived interest in several veterans' bills which were introduced but not acted on before Congress went home for vacation.

Chief point to be cleared up in pending legislation concerns rights of veterans to take jobs without having to join unions. Because of the great amount of post-war legislation to be considered, however, immediate action on any of the pending veterans' bills is not expected, and clarification of controversies on job rights will still be made most rapidly through local rulings and direct negotiation between ex-servicemen and their employers.

Here are a few of the typical questions which have come into Washington on such questions in the past few days:

Q—I wanted to enlist in the Navy, but couldn't pass physical. So I signed on with the Merchant Marine. But now that the war is over is there any chance to get back to my old job on shore? They tell me that the GI Bill of Rights does not protect us men in the Merchant Marine.

A—Your rights are protected. Although the Selective Service Act does not provide reinstatement rights for men who have left jobs to serve in Merchant Marine, your rights are protected under another law. The War Shipping Administration, Department of Commerce Building, Washington, has responsibility for administering this law, doing the same things done by the Veterans' Bureau for men in the armed services.

Q—Before going in the Army I was a machine operator in an electrical plant, but in the Army I have learned to be a radio repairman. When I go back to my former employer, can I demand a better job, or do I have to start in where I left off?

A—Most employers are genuinely interested in up-grading returning service men. There is, however, no regulation requiring your old employer to give you a better job than the one you had.

Q—I got out of the service a year ago and got my old job back in the auto plant, but now comes a lay-off and out I go. As a vet, don't they have to keep me on the job as long as there is any work?

A—A New York court has just ruled that in the one year after discharge period of reemployment, veterans have superior seniority rights. Veterans are therefore entitled to work on any day there is work to be given and no nonveterans shall work when such work can be done by a veteran.

Healthiest County Youths Will Enter Contest In Warren

LISBON, Sept. 7.—Miss Irma Ramseyer, home demonstration agent, said today that the two contestants, Miss Helen Wise, Hanoverton, and Clifford Fraser, Wells, will compete in a contest to be held Sept. 23 at Warren.

Miss Wise, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Wise of Hanoverton, was chosen as Columbiana county's healthiest girl. She is 17 years old and a Senior in Hanoverton High school. Her weight is 131½ pounds and height is 5 feet, 7½ inches. Miss Wise is said to possess a perfect set of teeth and out of a possible 1,000 points received a perfect physical score.

Selected as Columbiana's healthiest boy was Clifford Fraser, 15, son of Mrs. R. B. Fraser of R. D. 1, Wells. He is a Sophomore in Wellsville High school. Clifford received 996 of a possible 1,000 points. Four points are deducted for each defect and his only failing was a small filling in a tooth.

A $25 War bond will be presented to each of these two contestants Friday, Sept. 14, at the county fair.

Seven counties will be represented at the contest on Sept. 23, Trumbull, Mahoning, Lake, Portage, Geauga, Ashtabula and Columbiana.

The contestants will not be required to appear in person for this contest but will be judged according to their records which have been sent from their respective counties. Winners will be eligible for the state contest Oct. 20.

Ohio Laws Conflict With U. S. Jobless Pay Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Ohio advised the senate finance committee today its laws conflict with a proposal for federal supplements to raise state unemployment compensation payments.

Eighteen states so far have said there were legal obstacles to pending legislation which already has received a cool reception from a majority of the senate committee. Sponsored by Senator Kilgore (D-W.Va.), the measure calls for federal payments to establish a combined federal-state maximum nationwide of $25 for 26 weeks in payments to the jobless.

Columbiana Opens Street Fair Today

COLUMBIANA, Sept. 7. — Columbiana's annual street fair will open this evening, under the sponsorship of the American Legion.

Post Commander Russell J. Calvin is the fair manager and his assistants are: Treasurer, Leo Spensler; special prizes, Samuel R. Lindsay, A. M. McLaughlin, Ralph Redington, Russell Beck and James J. Martin; concessions, Ralph Redington; advertising, Ray W. Fisher; police, Marcus Hum, A. M. McLaughlin; headquarters, Norman Pregreter; street, Allen Hess and Robert Vollnoge.

There will be no domestic exhibit this year. This conclusion was reached due to the fruit crop failure, particularly the apple crop, as in previous years the apple display was one of the outstanding exhibits.

Main street has been closed to traffic and the street is filled with "concessions and rides of all kinds."

The Towasi class of the Presbyterian church held its first meeting of the fall season at the church Wednesday evening. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Alfred Barrow.

Mrs. Roy Guy, class president, presided at the short business meeting. The evening was spent in a social manner, and refreshments were served. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Kyser, Mrs. Melvin Wenderoth and Mrs. Elba Wilhelm.

The next meeting in October will be guest night, at which time a special program is being planned.

The Pythian Sisters will hold a special business meeting in the lodge hall next Wednesday. All members are urged to attend.

ALERT DIVISIONS FOR HOME VOYAGE

PARIS, Sept. 7.—A number of large U. S. Army units, including the 63rd and 103rd Infantry divisions and the 6th Armored division, have been alerted for shipment home from France within the next few days.

The Sixth and the 103rd are scheduled to leave Le Havre between Sept. 8-11 directly for a U. S. port, while the 63rd is waiting at Le Havre for transfer to Britain and then shipment home.

The 17th Airborne division will sail from Marseille today, and the 14th Armored division is due to leave from the same port on Monday.

The 70th Infantry and Ninth Armored divisions are gathering at assembly areas for transfer to the United States. The Fifth Armored division has been ordered to a port of embarkation about Sept. 13.

Also alerted, but with no estimated dates, are the 19th and 106th Infantry, and the Seventh, Eighth, 10th and 16th Armored divisions.

9 STRIKERS SUED BY MANUFACTURER

CLEVELAND, Sept. 7.—The McKinney Tool & Manufacturing Co. today filed the first suit of its kind in federal court here, demanding $100,000 damages from nine employees who went on strike last year.

The action, brought under the War Labor Disputes act of 1943, sets forth that damages suffered in violation of the act's terms are recoverable from the nine defendants.

The petition asserts the nine men were non-supervisory workers who had a certified collective bargaining representative.

However, the petition continues, on July 19, and again on July 27, 1944, "they violated the war labor disputes act by participating in a strike and urging others to join them."

The company contends that as a result of this action its war contracts were impeded and other employees left their jobs "in fear of their safety."

Pearl Harbor Probe Becomes Certainty

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Charges of "politics" swirled today around an assured congressional investigation into Pearl Harbor.

The investigation became a certainty when the senate unanimously passed a resolution yesterday calling for an inquiry by a 10-man committee of five senators and five representatives — three Democrats and two Republicans from each branch.

Republicans and Democrats alike got behind the resolution in the house, where it will come up Monday. The Republicans, however, are insisting on equal representation on the committee.

The party's 16-member house steering committee endorsed the resolution with an amendment to increase the membership of the investigatory body to 12, three Democrats and three Republicans from each branch. They will offer the amendment Monday, but indications are it will be voted down.

"We feel that this is not a partisan question," said House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts. "It should be removed from the realm of politics."

Demand for congressional investigation had come primarily from Republicans. It was somewhat of a surprise to them when Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) offered his resolution for a "thorough searching inquiry."

Barkley added that he was acting "with the full knowledge and approval of the President of the United States."

PRESENT 'E' FLAG TO WRIGHT PLANT

LISBON, Sept. 7.—Col. Edwin N. Clark of the U. S. Army Ordnance department, was to present the Army and Navy "E" flag to the Wright Co. of Lisbon at 3 p. m. today.

The flag will be received by Wm. E. Wright and W. J. Landen, representing the management, and Mrs. Vivian Pannel and Leroy Patterson, representing the employees. Posting of the flags will be by a WAC color guard and "E" pins will be presented to all employees of the company.

A former Lisbon boy, Capt. Howard W. Bradbury of the U. S. Navy, inspector of Naval ordnance in New York, veteran of World War I and commander of an AKA during World War II, will present Token "E" pins to Mrs. Emaline Stockman and Joseph Chestnut, representing the employees, and to David Price and Evan Loch, representing management.

The afternoon program was opened with music by Lisbon High school band. Graham Kearney, of the rationing board, was chairman of the program.

DARING EXPLOITS OF MEN AND WOMEN MARKED OSS OPERATIONS DURING WAR

BY ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Operations of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) have fallen generally into two classes—drab but highly important research in Washington, and the often daring exploits of men and women abroad.

Both went into a hopper from which emerged a strategic guide book.

Many of the workers who gathered up scraps of dull information had no idea of the ultimate use of such items as bills of lading at ports, traffic checks on foreign highways, tide tables, religious customs, the geological features of a field in Flanders. But the items went into the pattern which told invasion planners what to expect when soldiers went ashore on hostile land.

Researchers browsed through commerce department files, read uncounted volumes in the Congressional library. Here is an example: Prepare For Attacks

The United States was preparing for the strategic air attack on the German war economy. It needed to know the location of certain oil refining centers and the shipping routes for the products. Several hundred researchers spent weeks wading through reams of information.

Particular attention was paid to statistics on railroad car loadings as revealed in freight rate reports. The flow of oil was traced over that statistical trail to the sources—and the targets were marked for Allied bombers.

Two large plaques in the headquarters of OSS bear the names of men who were decorated—and who died—on missions overseas.

Up to Aug. 1, there were the names of 831 Army, Navy and Marine Corps personnel and civilians who had received military decorations from the United States and other governments for OSS service in all theaters of operation.

Fifty military personnel of the OSS have died in action—31 of them shot by execution squads after capture. Thirty-three others are missing. Forty-six were prisoners of war. And several hundred civilians of other nations who did work for OSS, were executed by the enemy.

Fifteen OSS men made "operation torch," the North African landings, possible. They moved about North Africa for 18 months. They established a network of clandestine radio stations—at Tunis, at Algiers, at Oran, Tangier, Casablanca. Those radio stations kept the allies informed of progress in preparing for D-E day in North Africa.

The group set the stage for Gen.

Mark Clark's landing from a submarine to negotiate with friendly French. They obtained the text of the German plans for countering an Allied invasion. They set the signals that showed the first landing craft where to hit the beach.

Found V-Weapon Base

Then there were the OSS representatives in Switzerland who contacted Germans who subsequently identified for the Allies the Peenemunde base used by the Germans for V-weapon experiments. These Germans later gave to the OSS—months before it happened—general details on the German plot to assassinate Hitler.

OSS men made possible the escape of more than 5,000 officers and enlisted men of army air forces who had been shot down or forced down back of enemy lines in the various theaters. Personnel of other outfits found their way to safety through OSS—navy men, ground troops and others.

ATTEMPT TO HALT SURRENDER FAILS

Fanatical Young Nippon
Officers Try to Get
Emperor's Record

TOKYO, Sept. 7. — Japanese sources regarded here as well informed said today that fanatical young Nipponese army officers killed one Japanese general Aug. 14 in an attempt to prevent Emperor Hirohito's surrender announcement from reaching the people.

The killing climaxed a fantastic attempt to keep Japan geared to war, these sources related. The final to the battle over surrender, between the emperor and certain military elements, involved a hot chase after the vital radio recording containing the emperor's historic capitulation receipt, they said.

The sources which gave this information said that the first surrender discussions among the military began in February—at the time of the great American carrier raids on Tokyo—and that the emperor began in March a fruitless effort to obtain advice on capitulation.

Before the surrender actually came, Japan had hinted officially to Russia that she was willing to yield Manchuria and North China in return for continued Soviet neutrality, these sources added, but this failed.

The emperor's receipt of surrender was finally recorded on Aug. 14 in the strictest secrecy and was scheduled to be broadcast to the people the next day.

Plot Is Hatched
The group of fanatical young army officers learned of it and a lieutenant colonel and a major hatched a plot to try to prevent its reaching the Tokyo radio.

The story continues they approached Lieut. Gen. Mori, commander of the Imperial Guards division—the emperor's troops—at the barracks in Azabu, a 20-minute march from the palace.

They demanded Mori station his troops around the palace on the pretext of guarding the emperor but actually so all outgoing cars could be searched for the recording.

Mori refused, saying he would take orders only from the imperial household, and the conspirators killed him. They then wrote orders to which they forged his name, but some of his subordinates recognized the forgery.

Finally, it was declared, some of the conspirators committed suicide within the Azabu barracks.

Another conspirator, learning of the miscarriage of the original scheme, drove to the radio station with a squad of men, cornered the radio staff in one room and began a search of the building for the recording.

This maneuver also was thwarted when one telephone employee managed to elude the soldiers and telephoned the nearby Eastern army command, which sent loyal troops.

HITLER LIKED HIM. QUISLING ASSERTS

OSLO, Sept. 7.—Vidkun Quisling, pleading for his life today, told a court trying him for treason that "Hitler took a deep liking for me and wanted me for other tasks in Europe."

The German-imposed premier of Norway during the occupation said German leaders "knew more about our defenses than our own officers."

He recounted his meeting with Hitler in December, 1939, a few months before Germany invaded Norway, and said the fuhrer talked of peace. But he said also that Germany would invade Norway ruthlessly, should Norway's neutrality be violated. Quisling testified.

He said there was no secret plot to deliver Norway to the Nazis.

"Any charges that I gave German secret information are fantastic," he said.

He acknowledged meeting Grand Adm. Erich Raeder, German naval chief, but said the conversation was "perfectly innocent" and had nothing to do with planning the invasion of Norway.

He explained his friendship with the Nazi Leader Alfred Rosenberg by asserting that Rosenberg worked for better treatment of Norway.

Mr. Falcon was born Nov. 11, 1882 in Italy and came to this country in 1901. He had been employed by the Adamson Manufacturing Co., his wife, the former Philomena Di-Achille, died in 1918.

He leaves four daughters, Mrs. Guerin Menagual and Mrs. Robert Gelano and Miss Sylvia of East Palestine, and Mrs. Thomas Reed of Salem; three sons, Samuel of East Palestine, Angelo of New Kensington.

The World Today

has been distributed among 1,050 peasant families.

An important development in connection with this vast Polish land reform is the establishment of new agricultural schools. The news agency says that 329 are now in operation.

Without attempting to draw sweeping conclusions from these expropriations, it is an important commentary that much of the wealth of the Prussian war lords has come from great feudal estates which have been in the same families for generations. Thus it is obvious that some of the strongest roots of German militarism are being torn up in this manner.

Of course the mere ownership of many acres doesn't make a man a rascal. It's true, however, that in numerous parts of Europe there still exists a feudalism which at one and the same time has kept land from the peasant and has waxed fat from the sweat of farm laborers.

In many instances these families of serfs have been attached to the same estates for generations, unable to break away and set up farming for themselves, even though untold thousands of acres were set aside for the barons for deer shooting and the like.

I've seen a small army of peasant girls digging with shovels on a great estate in Bulgaria, and have had the wealthy land-owner tell me with a laugh that he paid them only 15 cents a day each, with a spot of food at noon.

This sort of thing has been more typical of many parts of the Balkans and Eastern Europe. There's been much of it in Western Europe, for that matter, though not so medieval in form as one has seen in other sections.

Free Dental Treatment
For Rural School Pupils

COLUMBUS, Sept. 7.—Free dental treatment will be given to school children of low-income families in rural counties, the state health department announced today.

Director Roger Heering said a trailer equipped for limited service such as X-raying, filling and extracting teeth would tour the state under the supervision of Dr. Andrew Imhoff of Columbus.

Another trailer in charge of Dr. John Davis will tour other counties and give examinations, but no treatments. Children with dental defects will be referred to dentists in their communities.

Ohio Jobless Will Get Supplementary Checks

COLUMBUS, Sept. 7. — Ohio's jobless who already have received unemployment compensation benefits since Aug. 15 will receive supplementary checks to carry out the emergency legislation passed by the general assembly last Wednesday.

The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation announced today it would continue to pay claims filed and cleared at the old rate until they can be "redetermined" on the basis of the increased benefits.

Emergency legislation boosting maximum jobless benefits from $16 a week for 18 weeks to $21 for 22 weeks was passed by the general assembly in special session Wednesday night. BUC officials estimated more than 62,000 new claims had been filed since Aug. 15.

Occupation elsewhere than in the Japanese home islands was stepped up.

Japanese elements of 85,000 officers and men in Singapore were given until 10 a. m. today to dump their arms. They were given until 6 p. m. to evacuate southern Johore.

In China, United States transports were flying contingents of 80,000 Chinese to Nanking and other cities in coastal provinces.

In Manila, it was disclosed 10,000 Japanese troops in the area of north Luzon's Cagayan valley laid down their arms Wednesday before 1,000 American doughboys of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th (Buckeye) division.

Freeing Prisoners
The task of freeing Allied prisoners of war was highlighted by a rescue team of 24, including five American army nurses, which boldly took a Japanese troop train to Kobe—300 miles beyond the nearest American occupation troops.

The team took 603 prisoners, including Americans captured at Bataan, Corregidor, Wake and Guam, and put them on a train today bound for Yokohama.

At Guam, the Navy disclosed a task force movement Wednesday and Thursday into Pormosa, where more than 1,200 allied prisoners were taken.

From inside Japan came another story of the last days of the war. At Yokosuka naval air station, Hagline Onishi, Japanese seaplane pilot, said Nipponese ceased volunteering for the sure-death roles as kamikaze (suicide) pilots to crash their planes into American targets.

They had to be drafted.

ship from destroyer to battleship, he received his wings at Pensacola and plunged into Naval air strategy.

Commanded Aircraft
In May, 1942, he became commander, aircraft, South Pacific. A few months later he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for having "contributed greatly to the occupation of the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area."

Then he became deputy chief of Naval operations, air, in Washington.

Late in the summer of 1944, McCain returned to the Pacific to study carrier force tactics first hand under Adm. Marc A. Mitscher. After a few weeks, he was given command of a carrier task group under Mitscher.

In September and October, he helped cover the Peleliu and Leyte invasions and participated in the second battle of the Philippines, which sank or damaged 59 of 61 Nipponese ships participating.

Rain had prevented Gen. MacArthur's air forces from firmly establishing themselves on bitterly-contested Leyte, so he asked McCain to smash the Japanese air forces in the Philippines.

Blasted Philippines.
McCain's famous task force 38 did—with almost daily raids on Philippines bases and strikes at Formosa and along the Ryukyus.

Then Halsey and McCain dared to penetrate the South China sea. They went in 1,000 miles and early in January, their carrier planes blasted Saigon and 300 miles off the French Indo-China coast. Then they bombed, rocketed and strafed 800 miles of the China coast.

From Oct. 30, 1944, to Jan. 26, 1945, McCain's force sank or damaged 288 merchantmen totaling 955,100 tons; 101 cruisers, destroyers and destroyer escorts totaling 147,000 tons, and another 20,000 tons of small craft for a grand total of 1,162,500 tons.

In the same period, it destroyed or damaged 2,052 Japanese aircraft.

On May 27, McCain returned to the command of TF 38—in the middle of the fierce Okinawa campaign. He had the three-day task of neutralizing the kamikaze bases on Kyushu, protecting the Okinawa forces and smashing Japan itself.

to resume production and arbitrate their grievances.

AFL-International Association of Machinists officials agreed to reduce a picket line of more than 2,000 workers yesterday in a move to prevent further violence at the strikebound Parker Appliance Co. of Cleveland.

Await Court Action

Nearly 1,000 unionists from four other plants joined the strikers' line yesterday after a previous clash between mounted policemen and some 500 pickets brought injury to 14 workers.

Some 3,000 striking members of the CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers at the Packard Electric division of General Motors at Warren today awaited court action on a company petition for a temporary injunction against the union for "interference" with plant officials.

Three Toledo plants were hit by strikes of some 1,200 CIO-United Auto Workers. A controversy over representation idled 600 at the Packard Motor Car Co. while 500 walked out at Unicast Corp. and 100 at Toledo Industrial Rubber Corp. in seniority disputes.

"White Collar" Strike

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—"White collar" workers of Westinghouse Electric Corp., in 14 plants and offices in six states, have voted by an 18-to-1 margin in favor of a strike to enforce demands for a bonus and incentive pay rates.

Secretary H. C. Jones of the Federation of Westinghouse Independent Salaried unions, announced that the vote was 8,320 to 451 and that it represented more than three-fourths of the 12,000 members of the federation.

Strike Shuts Off Gas

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 7.—With domestic gas already shut off to consumers in a half-dozen Kanawha county towns, President Harry A. Wallace, Jr., of the strike-bound United Fuel Gas Co. predicted today the cities of Huntington and Charleston may be next to go.

He said the "activity of strikers in closing gate valves indicates gas will be closed off in Huntington and Charleston unless we get adequate protection for our personnel who want to work."

Wallace said a gate valve at Kenova through which United Fuel receives 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily from the Tennessee Gas and Transmission Co. was opened yesterday afternoon under the surveillance of state police, but it has since been closed and the utility is now receiving no gas from that source.

Wallace estimated United Fuel's daily distribution of around 300,000,000 cubic feet in seven eastern states has been reduced by the strike to 50,000,000 cubic feet.

FRACTION TO POINT UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The peace-time buying wave of Thursday carried over into the early proceedings of today's stock market but faltering tendencies soon appeared.

The prosperity tone of the President's message, combined with a mild revival of inflation thinking and the urge to invest idle funds, inspired further selective demand.

Wall Street, however, exhibited considerable caution because of expectations the long-awaited technical correction might be in the offing. The question of tax cuts still was a brake on extreme bullishness.

Dealings slackened after a fairly fast opening. Advances of fractions to a point or more were in the majority near the fourth hour. Assorted industrials and utilities were able to record new eight-hour peaks.

In front most of the time were Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Coca-Cola, Engineers Public Service, Electric Power & Light, Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck, Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, General Electric, N. Y., Central and Northern Pacific.

Laggards included Texas Co., Standard Oil (N. J.), Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Westinghouse, Public Service of N. J. and Loew's. Commodities were mixed.

Endorse Huge Cleveland Airport Expansion Plan

CLEVELAND, Sept. 7.—The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce today endorsed a $21,000,000 program for improvement and expansion of airport facilities in the Cleveland area.

The chamber called for rapid completion of the city's plans in the $10,000,000 expansion program at Municipal airport; establishment of an East Side airport at a cost of $10,000,000; and the building of a downtown, lakefront airport at a cost of $1,000,000.

Warning Is Issued To All Dog Owners

LEETONIA, Sept. 7.— Marshal Henry Gibson has issued a warning to all dog owners of Leetonia to comply with the order of County Health Commissioner Seward Harris, for the 90-day quarantine because of rabies.

All dogs must be tied on their premises, unless on a leash with the owner or competent person. The penalty of $100 fine and imprisonment will be enforced. A report is awaited for the specimen sent to Columbus Thursday. Signs were posted in the village Thursday.

CROWN JANE STAMP COUNTY QUEEN AT FAIR NEXT FRIDAY

Miss Erma Ramsey, home demonstration agent, said today that 11 a. m. and next Friday the Columbiana county 4-H queen for 1945 will receive the crown and she and her four attendants will be presented to the public at the county fair.

Miss Jane Stamp, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stamp, R. D. Salem, was selected as the year's queen and was chosen of a group of 12 contestants. The crown will be placed on her head by Miss Esther Jean Mayhew, winner of the Jolly Bunch club, who was last year's Queen.

Miss Stamp is a member of the Sew Merry club of Butler and besides being a member is also an advisor for her club. She has completed 13 projects in 4-H work and in 1941 won the county and state contest for team demonstration together with Esther Barker of R. D. Salem.

This year's queen also acted as 4-H but counselor at 4-H Wood in Ashtabula county and has a long record of community activities. Among them are secretary of Sunday school, choir member for two years, junior choir leader in 1944, chorister and Red Cross work.

The four girls chosen to attend Miss Stamp are: Audrey Mae Harold, 17, member of the Mile Branch Jolly Maidens club in Knox township, Daisey Metrovich, 18, of the Calcutta Busy Girls, June Huston, 18, of R. D. East Palestine, a member of the Unity Jolly Juniors and Evelyn Nold Ferguson, 18, member of the Try Try Again club, R. D. Salem.

Floyd Lower, agricultural extension agent announced today that on Friday at the county fair O. Aeschbacher of Rogers, breeder of Belted Hampshire hogs, will award a pedigree gilt to the 4-H boy girl having the best pig project in Columbiana county.

The award will be made on the basis of 50 per cent for management and participation and 50 per cent for the individuality of the project.

Presentation of the award will be made during the 4-H program in front of the grand stand.

HE NEEDS A LARGER SIZE

Now...

THE nation's postwar telephone system will be cut to a new and larger pattern. America at war made tremendous strides industrially and technically. The new postwar America demands an expanding and constantly improving communications network.

We recognize this need. Our company has in blueprint stage the largest peacetime construction program in its history, involving expenditure of $100,000,000 for expansion and improvement of its facilities. Now that victory has released all our resources, these plans will be translated into new buildings, pole lines, exchange apparatus and telephones as rapidly as possible. But at best it will be months before these buildings and equipment are ready so that everyone waiting for telephone service can get it.

Our first job will be to provide service for the 95,000 families in Ohio Bell exchanges now waiting for it. Although 175,000 telephones were installed by the Ohio Bell company during the war years, war needs for materials and manpower prevented us from keeping pace with wartime demands for service.

Now that we have the "go ahead", the Bell System's entire productive capacity will be reconverted to handle the task with which it is most familiar... that of furnishing the best telephone service in the world.

Sinclair Utilizes Big Break To Win Round

Breaks make any sports, and it was never more convincingly proved than at Centennial park last night when the Recreation batted a 3-1 lead in the fifth inning to lose 5-3 to the Sinclair Oils, thereby settling the Class A softball picture, which has been extremely complicated for the past two weeks.

Sinclair made the selection of a city champion a simple matter by defeating the Recreation for the third round title. Now all that remains is a best two-out-of-three series under the lights at Reilly stadium between the Oilers, winners of the second and third rounds, and Mullins, first round champs.

That playoff, Joe Kelley said today, will be staged Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Reilly stadium, together with the Class B playoff between the Columbians and the Youth Center.

The break that told the story in the ball game last night was definitely the deciding point in the contest. Lefty Schmidt, Sinclair first sacker, was at the plate in the fifth with two men out and runners on second and third. The score was 3-1 in favor of the Rec.

Schmidt lined one down second to Merle Caldwell, who scooped it up, tossed to first and supposedly ended the threat.

The break—and it was important—was that Catcher Cornelius Sobotka of the Rec had tipped Schmidt's bat with his glove as the first baseman swung, thereby automatically giving him first base because of interference.

From there on it was an old baseball story. Bob "Doggie" Scullion, who hits when hits are needed, slammed out a double to left center to score the tying runs. Buck Ritchie added another double for two more runs and the outcome of the game was settled, although no one realized it at the time.

The Recreation's three run lead was posted in the first, and then whittled to 3-1 in the second. Eddie Bosiek tallied the first Oil marker in the second when he walked and scored on a single by Lee Schaffer.

The three Old Timer runs came on an error, a fielder's choice and a single by Wink Miller, a triple by Eddie Bosiek, followed by a double by Peanuts Debar.

Oiler Moundman Mutt Schaeffer pulled himself out of a tight spot in the sixth when three Sinclair errors loaded the sacks with nobody away.

Schaeffer forced Jim Jackson to foul out to Catcher Gale Stewart, had Eddie Pukalski pop out to Schmidt at first and forced Sobotka to foul out.

He walked one batter, allowed eight hits and fanned one man. Bill Pauline did the hurrying for Recreation and passed one while fanning four. He also allowed eight safeties.

Sport Chatter

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—To get the idea of Hank Borowy's importance in the Cubs' pennant drive, take a look at the relief pitching figures.... In 128 games up to yesterday, the Cubs had called on 41 pitchers for 112 relief stints—some successful.... Since Hank joined up July 29, they played 40 games and the starting pitchers were around on 26 occasions, including all of Borowy's nine starts.

After Monday's doubleheader in which Chicago's Andy Pafko hit a first-inning homer with the bases full, the versatile Red Smith of the baseball Cubs and football Giants was exulting.... "A thing like that gives a team a lift that lasts all day," he explained, "and the other team suffers a letdown."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Georgia's "Perf of Great Price," Al Perl, has been A.W.O.L. from the university since Monday and Wally Butts isn't counting on him to play this fall.... A couple of "sleepers" on the Army football squad may be James Rawers, end, and Elwin "Ripper" Rowan, back, who never played college ball. They're listed as third stringers but Coach Earl Blak frequently mentions Rawers and Bernie Moore counted on Rowan, an "All-Everything" high schooler, to become a regular at Louisiana State until the kid switched to West Point.

OHIO STATE HURT BY LOSS OF CLINE

Slated For Fullback Job, Cline Due For Service Before Long

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Sept. 7.—Ohio State university football fans, hoping for another Big Ten title and an unbeaten season, were jolted today by the news that Ollie Cline, slated for the fullback slot, faces military service.

Cline, a regular last season, has been accepted for service but no date has been set for his call. He may be available for the first game or two, or he might be around the entire season. He had been rejected on two previous occasions because of a perforated ear drum.

Have Replacement

Freshman Chuck Gandee of Berea looks at present like the best bet to Cline's position. Max Schnitker, tackle and placekicker, was expected to report for military service today or tomorrow. Should the Bucks lose both Schnitker and Cline, another booter, Coach Carroll Widows may call on Bob Mayer, student manager, to do the kicking-off and place kicks.

Rumors flying around have it that Jerry Tuttle, Ohio State football, basketball and baseball player last year, has entered Kent State.

BACKACHES, LAME SHOULDERS, NOW WORRY TIGER RACE

Newhouse, Leonard Both Have Troubles, Which Complicates Race

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

Hal Newhouse's aching back and Dutch Leonard's lame shoulder further complicate the American league flag race today as the clubs go back to a normal single game after two dizzy days and nights of doubleheaders.

"It's all up to Hal," said Manager Steve O'Neill. "The doctors in Detroit said he's underweight and plenty of rest was needed. He'll go when he says he's ready."

Leonard came up with his salary wing trouble after retiring the St. Louis Browns in order in the first inning of their two-night twin bill at Washington.

But things look brighter for the Senators today in the won and lost column for they're only a game and a half back of the Tigers. Washington took a hard-fought pair from the St. Louis Browns, 2-0, behind Johnny Niggeling, and 3-2 in the second game, which Marino Pieretti finished for Leonard.

Detroit almost lost two to the Yankees but rallied to pull the second out of the coals after trailing 2-0 for six innings. Roy Cullenbine's two-run homer tied it up and Hank Greenberg drove home two with an infield hopper as Nick Etten held the ball after the New York infield had tried unsuccessfully for a double play.

The Tigers finally capped the nightcap, 5-2, with Les Mueller, an ex-soldier, throwing a three-hitter, after absorbing a 14-5 lacing in the opener. Four Yank homers, two by Catcher Aaron Robinson and one apiece by Bud Metheny and Charley Keller, added to 15 walks and two hit batsmen by the futile Detroit throwers made it a cakewalk for the home club to the delight of 37,808 paying customers.

Sox Break Even

Chicago broke even in a pair with the last-place Philadelphia club which took the first contest, 6-5, on George Kell's ninth-inning single. Wally Moses' triple helped Orval Grove even the score in the 2-1 finale.

The St. Louis Cardinals lost another half game to the Chicago Cubs in their uphill struggle toward a fourth National league pennant. Billy Southworth's gang now trails by five games. Ed Wright of Boston turned back the world champs with three blows, 9-1, and Ken Burkhardt of the Birds squared matters for his 16th victory in the 7-3 second game for a two-night double.

Chicago flattened the New York Giants, 6-1, in the afternoon, an easy seventh victory for Fordham Hank Borowy, the ex-Yankee. Bill Nicholson's 12th homer with a man on backed up Borowy's efficient effort.

Brooklyn took it on the chin, but hard, in Pittsburgh, losing 17-5, amidst a usual rhabur with the umpires. Leo Durocher and Luis Olmo were chased.

Freshman Howard Fox of Cincinnati celebrated his first pitching success since July 6, snapping a nine-game losing streak at the Phils' expense, 4-1. Izzy Leon was the victim.

Twin Triple Threats

Frank Howard doesn't quite have a pat hand at Clennson, but the Tiger coach does possess a pair of aces in the hole, Carol (Conet) Cox, left, and Bobby Gage were South Carolina's top schoolboy stars last fall. They are triple threat signal-calling safety men, and the competition they are giving each other for first rights at tailback is fierce.

TENNESSEE TEAM ISN'T BOWL SQUAD

So Says Coach Barnhill Who Led Vols to Bowl Game In 1944

By CHICK BOSCH

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 7.—"We'll have about the same sort of team we had last year—but don't say it will be a bowl team."

That prediction and admonishment came today from Coach John Barnhill as he surveyed the remnants of his 1945 Rose Bowl team and reflected on Tennessee's football prospects for this season.

The Vols got underway Saturday with some four dozen candidates, about half of them back from last year's unbeaten, one-tied, eleven, and have been going at it in two-a-day sessions. They open Sept. 29 with Wake Forest.

As a backfield nucleus, Barnhill has Capt. Billy Bevis, named the Southeastern Conference's best blocker last year; All-Conference Halfback Buster Stephens, Fullback Mark Major and Wingback Casey Stephenson.

To go with those four regulars, the Vols have John Hanning, who played consistently as a Freshman last year; Freshman Bob Lund, a 175-pound, all-southern Knoxville High school star, who'll understate Stephens, and a flock of other 1944 prep school stars.

Line Heavy

The line will be built around Russell (Red) Morrow, 195-pound powerhouse who held down the center lot last year; All-Conference Guard Bob Dobelesstein, 200-pound Senior; and three 190-pound ends, Sophomores Charles Wildman and Buddy Pike, and Senior Roy Cross.

As pacesetters for a group of Freshmen tackles, Barnhill is grooming two Sophomores who played early consistently last year, Russ Dobelesstein, 190; and Bo Stewart, 205. Bill Padgett, 210-pound All-

COUNTY STREAMS LOW, FISH DYING

L. W. Boring, county fish and game warden, said today that the severe drought of the past several weeks has caused all streams of the county to become dangerously low, bringing death to hundreds of fish with which the streams were stocked by the state.

Streams have become so low that the flow of water is not sufficient to carry away the pollution, which when the water is flowing rapidly, does not affect the life of the fish, but will, when the water is low, cause fish to die.

Burt Canwell of Ravenna, supervisor of District 3, which includes Lisbon and the Lisbon district, said nothing can be done about the rapid destruction of the fish in the streams, the only hope being a long needed rain.

State High school tackle from Knoxville, also is down for a lot of service this fall.

Barnhill, who'll rely on the single wing again, has practically a new staff of assistants, including Ike Peel, Tennessee alumnus named the Conference's best blocker in 1941; Bill White, former head coach at Howard college; and Mickey O'Brien who returns as trainer.

SALEM GRID PROSPECTS NOT ROSY, TEAM LOOKS "GREEN"

Prospects are not rosy for the 1945 season of the Salem High school Quakers, but Coach Ben Barrett, beginning his third season here, definite hopes that his club will work into a well-rounded squad before the season is very far along.

With school under way, two weeks of practice under their belts and two practice games already staged, the Quakers are well in the swing of things for the opening game at Reilly stadium a week from tonight.

Cleveland Rhodes—far from an easy starter—is booked to meet Salem here then. It will be a real test for the 1945 Barrettmen.

A practice game, regulation length, was staged at Reilly Wednesday evening against Coach Cy James' Youngstown Ursuline outfit. Salem lost 13-7, but some worthwhile experience was derived from the session by both squads.

Barrett ran his Quakers against Niles a week ago and was pleased with their showing then.

His latest comment on the squad is favorable. Admitting his bunch will be plenty "green," Barrett says he has a fairly good idea of his top 11 men after the scrimmage Wednesday.

The loss of Francis Lanney, a two-year veteran at halfback, will be hard for the Salemites to make up, but Barrett has already done some shuffling and replacing in that direction.

WITH U. S. MARINES ON JAPAN—The Marines are one group of service men that will never need lessons in self confidence.

Coming to the Pacific from the European theater, I wondered how these jungle fighters and island hoppers would compare with the fighting men I had seen take the measure of the Axis in Africa, Sicily, Italy, France and Germany.

They differ in several ways from the doughboys of Africa and Europe. They are harder to get acquainted with and brag more.

Whether they are better fighters I am not in a position to say. I got to the Pacific too late to see them in real action.

But one thing is certain—the Marines are the cockiest of all the fighters under Uncle Sam's flag.

When you first meet them, you get the impression they are pretty clannish. They get that out pretty quickly, however, and once they take you into their camaraderie, you're all the way in. You do have the lingering suspicion they took you in just so they'd have somebody new to tell how good they are.

Marines talk scrappy. They think that the army stinks and they say so at every opportunity. They dislike sailors too. About the only kind words I have heard them use in describing another outfit was reserved for the Seabees.

Mentally, they are in this respect counterparts of the Paratroopers and Rangers who fought with such distinction in Africa and Europe. All such specially selected units are characterized by aggressive, superb self confidence.

They grow up fast in the Marines. The leader of the leathernecks aboard the transport on which I came to Japan was 24-year-old freckled face Maj. E. P. Carney of Churchland, Va.

"A lot of the men," he said, "even fought their way out of hospitals to get back with us for this trip."

There is no question but that the Marines—like the Paratroopers and Rangers—are young and tough and good. However, one wonders whether these brilliant outfits do any better in the long run than such army infantry as the First and Third divisions.

The coordination and teamwork of such veteran divisions pays off terrifically on the battlefield. They fight and kill calmly and never get rattled.

Marines are all interested in hearing about European fighting and they admit they are impressed by heavy army casualties in Africa and Europe and such information that the First Infantry division was only one of several divisions that spent more than 400 days in battle. "I guess," said one respectfully, "they had it pretty rugged over here."

Sale of 4-H Club Steers Feature At County Fair

A sale of 4-H club steers will be one of the features at the County Fair at Lisbon this year. The sale will be held at 2 p. m. next Friday.

Steers will be shown at 9:30 as part of the 4-H program on Friday which is Junior Day. Thirty-four Hereford steers, which have been fed and cared for by farm boys and girls during the past year, will be offered at the sale. Other 4-H livestock will be judged Wednesday forenoon.

The steers will average at least 1,000 pounds. Howard Davison, extension animal husbandman of Ohio State university, will judge the steers and Howard Sinclair of Hanoverton, secretary of the Fair board, will conduct the auction.

Do you suffer from MONTHLY NERVOUS TENSION with its woe, tired feelings?

If functional periodic disturbances make you feel nervous, tired, restless—at such times—try this great medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Taken regularly—it helps build up resistance against such distress. Also a grand stomachic. Follow label directions.

WITH U. S. MARINES ON JAPAN—The Marines are one group of service men that will never need lessons in self confidence.

Coming to the Pacific from the European theater, I wondered how these jungle fighters and island hoppers would compare with the fighting men I had seen take the measure of the Axis in Africa, Sicily, Italy, France and Germany.

They differ in several ways from the doughboys of Africa and Europe. They are harder to get acquainted with and brag more.

Whether they are better fighters I am not in a position to say. I got to the Pacific too late to see them in real action.

But one thing is certain—the Marines are the cockiest of all the fighters under Uncle Sam's flag.

When you first meet them, you get the impression they are pretty clannish. They get that out pretty quickly, however, and once they take you into their camaraderie, you're all the way in. You do have the lingering suspicion they took you in just so they'd have somebody new to tell how good they are.

Marines talk scrappy. They think that the army stinks and they say so at every opportunity. They dislike sailors too. About the only kind words I have heard them use in describing another outfit was reserved for the Seabees.

Mentally, they are in this respect, counterparts of the Paratroopers and Rangers who fought with such distinction in Africa and Europe. All such specially selected units are characterized by aggressive, superb self confidence.

They grow up fast in the Marines. The leader of the leathernecks aboard the transport on which I came to Japan was 24-year-old freckled face Maj. E. P. Carney of Churchland, Va.

"A lot of the men," he said, "even fought their way out of hospitals to get back with us for this trip."

There is no question but that the Marines—like the Paratroopers and Rangers—are young and tough and good. However, one wonders whether these brilliant outfits do any better in the long run than such army infantry as the First and Third divisions.

The coordination and teamwork of such veteran divisions pays off terrifically on the battlefield. They fight and kill calmly and never get rattled.

Marines are all interested in hearing about European fighting and they admit they are impressed by heavy army casualties in Africa and Europe and such information that the First Infantry division was only one of several divisions that spent more than 400 days in battle. "I guess," said one respectfully, "they had it pretty rugged over here."

Sale of 4-H Club Steers Feature At County Fair

A sale of 4-H club steers will be one of the features at the County Fair at Lisbon this year. The sale will be held at 2 p. m. next Friday.

Steers will be shown at 9:30 as part of the 4-H program on Friday which is Junior Day. Thirty-four Hereford steers, which have been fed and cared for by farm boys and girls during the past year, will be offered at the sale. Other 4-H livestock will be judged Wednesday forenoon.

The steers will average at least 1,000 pounds. Howard Davison, extension animal husbandman of Ohio State university, will judge the steers and Howard Sinclair of Hanoverton, secretary of the Fair board, will conduct the auction.
